Virtual Wednesdays at the Fine Arts Museums

The Museums are temporarily closed starting November 29, but our Virtual Wednesday programs continue!

Join the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco online every Wednesday at 5 pm as we celebrate the Bay Area's artist voices. We explore diversity, resilience, and creative spirit in the arts as we aim to highlight unique viewpoints to reframe our exhibitions and collections.

Our weekly public programs feature a range of artists and community leaders from different disciplines, backgrounds, identities, abilities, and sensibilities, at every level of their careers. These artists and leaders reflect the developing programs and practices that focus on representation, inclusion, and equity in meaningful ways, engaging Bay Area audiences and beyond.

Enjoy our menu of free programming and engage virtually with the Fine Arts Museums as we work to build empathy and break stereotypes, supporting new ways of thinking about and engaging with art!

Welcome to Our Museum of Smells

The restaurant critic Tejal Rao recently created a “personal smell museum” of her life in Los Angeles, cataloging the aromas she encountered in her home and her office, the scent of vanilla she detected when driving past a commercial bakery. I asked her why she thought a smell museum was such a vital way to document her life.
